“ There are never enough words to say when you lose a special loved one. I first met Mr. Chism in 2002 as I was a transplant student from Missouri and we ended up in a History class together. I learned early on that he was apart of the Mustang football team as he along with others would come to class with their jerseys on. I sat behind him in class and one day he turned around and said "girl you one of them smart ones" I kinda chuckled at him and said thank you and from then on when he would see me or he'd be at his mom's house visiting he'd always speak. Small friendly gestures are cherished and so is he because memories and stories keep his spirit alive. I pray strength, peace and understanding be bestowed unto his family not just right now in the busyness but when it gets quiet and the phone calls and text messages stop💛 He's always with you! Rest peacefully classmate.

“ Tae was a great guy, definitely a ladies man. My greatest memory of him would be the first day we met, at the blue flame. I was new to the city currently coming from California, he made sure he left a good impression that night, we danced all night, Tae loved to dance and look clean while doing so. Kenyatae was there for me every time I needed him. He made sure I was very comfortable while I lived in Forrest city. I'll never forget our square 1 moments. Even after we broke up, he still looked out for me. What got me was his beautiful smile. Tae was the only person outside of my family that would call me Missy. We travel together and made great memories. I would always laugh at Tae because he had a funny way of sleeping.. lol I never knew a person who could sleep on their belly with their hands tucked under their chin. Lol, I still can't see how he kept his head held up while sleeping... lol Tae was more than a ex-boyfriend, he was a great friend. Once I moved back to Cali Tae would always call and check on me, even after I got married. Those who know him know that he was very compassionate and caring and loved who he loved. Tae became one of my favorite people. We talked all the time, he would always tell me how proud he was of me and that he would always love me. He was a very true friend. What hurts the most was our talk on Dec 23rd. I just told him I was coming to see him and his cousin whom he lived with at the time. Tae was so excited he even made me more excited, we priced tickets and everything. I wanted that chance to huge and embrace my friend again. Kenyatae thank you for everything you've done and been for me. You will never be forgotten. You will always have a special a place in my heart forever! I love you black!
